

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Glominex™ Glow Body Paint is a water-based, non-toxic and highly tested paint made in the U.S.A. It should be applied modestly to a small patch of the skin before using elsewhere on the body. If after approximately 60 minutes a reaction develops, do not continue to use.

Glominex™ body paint is non-irritating and is clinically, allergy and dermatology tested. A study was conducted in 2015 and dermatology and clinical specialists concluded that Glominex™ Glow Body Paint had “no signs or symptoms of primary irritation or sensitization” when tested on more than 50 individuals, over the span of a month.

When dry, it will present a lotion-type feel. Do not apply aggressively in excessive layers on the skin. Each time the body paint is exposed to light for 15 minutes it will glow in the dark. You can expose the paint to light to recharge; no blacklight is required.

Ingredients: water, lotion, acrylic base, glow pigment, dye. Ingredients used are recognized as safe.

PREPARATION AND APPLICATION:

1. Before application, ensure that the person has no skin allergies, open wounds or infections.
2. Clean the part of the skin you are going to paint.
3. Modestly apply one even coat of Glominex™ Glow Body Paint (test on small patch to start) and let it dry for one hour.
4. Expose the paint to light for 15 minutes.
5. When you go to a dark area, the paint will glow!
6. To remove, wash off with soap and warm water. Gently scrub with warm water if needed. If multiple layers are applied, additional washings and time may be needed.

SAFETY AND HANDLING

While these products present no serious safety hazards, some precautions should be observed during use. Try to avoid sensitive areas of the skin, and do not apply around the eyes or mouth. Do not apply on open wounds or cuts or any part of the skin that shows a reaction. Do not use in hair. The paint may stain fabric and other surfaces. Not intended for children under 8 years of age. Adult supervision recommended for all under 18. Do not store in extreme cold or heat.
